The Enterprise Wireless Alliance (“EWA” or “Alliance”), in accordance with Section 1.415(a) of the Federal Communications Commission (“FCC” or “Commission”) rules, respectfully submits its Comments in response to the above-identified Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.¹ Both in response to Petitions filed by the Land Mobile Communications Council (“LMCC”) and on its own motion, the FCC has proposed rule changes intended to expand access to private land mobile radio (“PLMR”) spectrum. EWA generally supports the Commission’s proposals, but urges it to adopt the changes proposed herein that the Alliance believes will further the FCC’s objective of promoting the availability of PLMR spectrum for the variety of entities that depend on it for vital communications applications.

I INTRODUCTION

EWA represents a broad alliance of business enterprise users, commercial service providers, radio dealers and technology manufacturers. Its Board of Directors includes representatives from organizations such as Ford Motor Company, United Parcel Service, Delta Airlines, Inc., Southern Company Services, Chevron Corporation, Aviation Spectrum Resources, Inc., Lockard & White, pdvWireless, Inc., and the National Rural Telecommunications Cooperative. Many of the Alliance’s vendor members whose representatives also serve on EWA’s Board of Directors – Harris Corporation, Hytera America, Inc., Icom America, Kenwood USA Corporation, Motorola Solutions, Inc., PowerTrunk, Inc., and Unication USA, Inc. – play a critical leadership role in the organization and in the PLMR user community including, most recently, their development of advanced digital products for this industry and their promotion of FCC rules that facilitate the deployment of digital systems.

EWA’s members use or provide equipment to be used on a variety of spectrum regulated by the Commission, but the majority of these operations are conducted on PLMR frequencies that are regulated under Part 90 of the FCC Rules. The non-public safety (“PS”) PLMR community has not been assigned a new spectrum allocation since 1986, when the 900 MHz band was made available for its use. In the meantime, the Commission has required that systems operating on VHF and UHF Part 90 channels migrate to narrower bandwidths,² an action that produced a modest increase in assignable channels in populated markets where additional capacity is needed. However, under very limited circumstances were these channels able to be licensed on an exclusive use basis as FB8s, exempting them from the monitoring requirements of Rule Section 90.187(b) and making them usable as control channels in the increasingly important digital centralized trunked systems. Because the PLMR services are so seriously spectrum-constrained, it is critical that all options for expanding the supply of channels that can be licensed as FB8 be given serious consideration.

The Alliance is also a member of the LMCC and endorses the Comments being filed in this proceeding by that organization, some of which EWA expands upon herein.

II COMMENTS

A. Subpart S – 800 MHz Expansion Band (EB) and Guard Band (GB)³ Licensing

The 800 MHz EB and GB, both created as part of the 800 MHz rebanding proceeding,⁴ offer an opportunity for PLMR entities to license channels on an exclusive basis in the most spectrum scarce markets in the nation. While the number of available channels is not large, 40 25 kHz channels in the GB⁵ and a smaller number in the EB where PLMR systems are already licensed, it represents a significant opportunity for PLMR incumbents that have been awaiting their release for more than a decade. This is likely the last unencumbered narrowband spectrum that the FCC will make

² See FCC Rule Section 90.209(b)(6).

³ The FCC will note that there is a unique 800 MHz band plan in a defined area around Atlanta, GA that does not provide for a GB. See FCC Rule Section 90.617.

⁴ See Improving Public Safety Communications in the 800 MHz Band, Report and Order, Fifth Report and Order, Fourth Memorandum Opinion and Order, and Order, WT Docket No. 02-55, 19 FCC Rcd 14969 (2004) (“800 MHz Rebanding Order”).

⁵ There are a handful of markets where a few GB channels are licensed to incumbents, so the total available will be less than 40 in those areas.

available, as the wireless industry worldwide has migrated to broadband technologies. Responsible spectrum management demands that it be placed into use promptly by entities whose need for it can be demonstrated and whose implementation can be properly documented.

Channels in the EB/GB bands become available when the FCC announces that a sufficient level of band clearing has been met in one of the 55 National Public Safety Planning Advisory Committee (“NPSPAC”) regions. To date, the FCC has released the EB/GB spectrum in 20 NPSPAC regions, most of which have few markets with sizeable populations and, therefore, few areas of spectrum scarcity where incumbents needed additional capacity. Instead, virtually all of the channels in those markets have been licensed to applicants for new Specialized Mobile Radio (“SMR”) systems proposing to offer commercial service, often with multiple parties licensing channels at the same site.⁶

On March 27, 2014, the LMCC filed a Petition for Rulemaking requesting the FCC to adopt rules that would provide 800 MHz band incumbents, whether Business/Industrial/Land Transportation (“B/ILT”), PS or SMR entities, a six-month period in which to apply for EB/GB channels in markets where they already are operating before this spectrum is made available to new applicants in the market.⁷ The LMCC EB/GB Petition explained why such a rule would advance the public interest. The Commission invited comments on the LMCC proposal.⁸ Incumbents and almost all Frequency Advisory Committees (“FACs”) that represent the PLMR user community supported this time-limited opportunity for incumbents to expand their operations.⁹ Prospective applicants for new SMR licenses in areas where the FCC had not yet made this spectrum available opposed the proposal, arguing that it effectively would bar new small businesses.¹⁰ They also disagreed that incumbents are more likely to put spectrum into use promptly and productively than are new entrants.

The NPRM states that the FCC proposes to adopt the LMCC proposal in part by allowing B/ILT incumbents to expand coverage and capacity on EB B/ILT channels before allowing new entrants to apply for that spectrum. EWA appreciates that the FCC is attempting to balance competing interests but, with respect, this opportunity is close to meaningless in many key markets. The FCC rules designate 12 EB channels for B/ILT use and 28 for SMR systems. Because the EB has been available for decades, many of those 12 channels are already assigned to B/ILT incumbents in major markets. EWA has examined potential EB and GB availability in some key urban areas, with the following results:

Market	Total EB Available	EB B/ILT Available	EB SMR Available	GB Available
San Francisco	9	0	9	40
NYC	6	1	5	36
Miami	24	3	21	40
Chicago	18	3	15	40
Dallas	27	2	25	40
Los Angeles	14	4	10	34
Phoenix	13	5	8	40
Wash., DC	7	4	3	40
Houston	13	0	13	36
Boston	28	5	23	40

There is little or no B/ILT spectrum for which incumbents could apply. Indeed, even if the FCC were to include EB SMR spectrum, the number of available channels is limited. It was for that reason that the LMCC urged the FCC to adopt a time-limited period during which all EB and GB spectrum would be available, first, for all 800 MHz incumbents.

¹⁰ An entity identified as Bigby Partners further claimed that adoption of the proposed rule would disadvantage “veterans, minorities and others who view such frequencies as a great American opportunity to offer emerging information technologies to commercial, consumer and government entities.” Whatever promotional materials were provided to Bigby Partners, encouraging it to pursue EB/GB spectrum as an investment opportunity, EWA would caution it is unlikely that emerging information technologies will be provided to consumers on these 25 kHz bandwidth channels, given the ubiquitous coverage and functionalities of nationwide broadband wireless carriers.

Many EWA members actively support this proposal. Companies such as American Electric Power Service Corporation (“AEP”) and DTE Energy Company, utilities with extensive 800 MHz networks and a need for additional capacity, in the case of AEP over a multi-state operating area, have expressed serious interest in seeking EB/GB spectrum, as well as concern that meaningful relief will not be available if the FCC’s proposal is adopted. SMR members in markets as diverse as rural Washington State, where 800 MHz spectrum is limited due to Canadian treaty consideration, and Las Vegas also need additional spectrum to expand existing systems to meet customer demand.

EWA believes the LMCC EB/GB Petition also implicitly sought a lifting of the now two decades old freeze on 800 MHz inter-category sharing in the EB/GB during this period.¹¹ To the extent that was unstated, it has been clarified in LMCC Comments in this proceeding and the Alliance supports that position fully. EWA further recommends that inter-category sharing between B/ILT and SMR licensees in the interleaved bands (809/854-815/860 MHz) be permitted during this period as well. The 800 MHz rebanding proceeding has shuffled the original pool designations beyond all recognition. Any system that needed to be rebanded was moved to spectrum vacated by Sprint. Since Sprint was never eligible to acquire public safety pool spectrum for inclusion in its iDEN network, all of its spectrum was either B/ILT, SMR, or General Category. With the exception of NPSPAC licensees, all rebanded licensees, including non-NPSPAC public safety licensees, were relocated to non-public safety channels, but not necessarily to channels within the pool for which they were primarily eligible. Allowing B/ILT and SMR incumbents access to out-of-pool channels under FCC Rule Section 90.621(e), but not to public safety channels, would foster greater flexibility that would promote the most intensive use of this band.

¹¹ Inter-Category Sharing of Private Mobile Frequencies in the 806-821/851-856 MHz Bands, Order, 10 FCC Rcd 7350, 7351 (WTB 1995).

Because this spectrum is an optimal home for PLMR systems that need exclusive channels, EWA recommends that B/ILT and commercial incumbents in the 470-512 MHz (“T-Band) and 900 MHz bands also be allowed to migrate to 800 MHz channels during this period. Congress has mandated that PS T-Band licensees be moved out of the band so this spectrum can be auctioned by 2021.¹² Although the legislation does not address non-PS use of the band, the FCC, to date, has addressed T-Band holistically, imposing a stringent freeze that does not distinguish between PS and other licensees.¹³ The Commission has taken one step toward providing replacement spectrum for PS incumbents by specifying that they be given priority access to previously reserved 700 MHz narrowband channels.¹⁴ No comparable home has been identified for non-PS licensees that also may be displaced by the legislation. Allowing those licensees priority access to 800 MHz spectrum would provide them with one option that might prove attractive to some entities, although it would require them to finance their own migration rather than rely on funding that is expected to be available for relocated incumbents through the auction process.

Further, as one of the proponents of the 900 MHz broadband proposal,¹⁵ EWA recommends that 900 MHz incumbents also have priority access to available 800 MHz channels, whether EB/GB or interleaved, during this six-month period. The Alliance understands that some 900 MHz licensees that wish to maintain narrowband operations would welcome the opportunity to relocate to the 800 MHz band, a band with significantly broader equipment options than 900 MHz. Allowing priority for licensees that have demonstrated an ability and commitment to deploying systems to meet critical communications needs clearly is consistent with the Commission's obligation to serve the public interest.

In furtherance of that objective, the Alliance believes it is appropriate for the FCC to determine whether the public interest still requires that Sprint-vacated spectrum be reserved for PS entities for three years before being made available to CII applicants, many of which currently hold 900 MHz licenses.¹⁶ Unlike others in the PLMR user community, PS entities have been allocated additional spectrum, both narrowband and broadband, in recent years.¹⁷ It is appropriate for the FCC to assess whether this three-year set-aside continues to serve the public interest.

Moreover, to ensure that this valuable spectrum is used promptly and intensively, EWA makes the following additional recommendations. All entities that secure EB/GB channels, whether incumbents during the initial six-month period or new entities thereafter, should be required to deploy digital systems that use either 12.5 kHz bandwidth technology or technology with 12.5 kHz spectral equivalency or better. Digital narrowband equipment on a variety of technology platforms is well-tested and widely available. Its use should be a condition for securing a license for EB/GB channels.

The Alliance also urges the FCC to deter spectrum warehousing by imposing an accelerated construction deadline on EB/GB licensees, whether incumbents or new licensees. Any entity that does an appropriate amount of planning for its system deployment should not need a year to construct a base station facility.¹⁸ Instead, EWA recommends that licensees be required to file a construction notification with the FCC six months after license grant that includes an affidavit, sworn under penalty of perjury, from the site owner or manager verifying that the system has been constructed at the site in substantial conformance with the license. If the facility is constructed at the licensee's own facility, the verification should come from the third party that installed the system.

¹⁶ See FCC Rule Section 90.617(g).

¹⁷ See FCC Rule Sections 90.19 and 90.521 et seq.

¹⁸ The rules contain a safety valve for licensees that require longer build-out periods if they can satisfy the extended implementation standard. See FCC Rule Section 90.629.

It is unfortunate that this step needs to be taken, but questions have arisen with respect to certain SMR licenses granted on EB/GB spectrum in the NPSPAC regions where this spectrum has already been made available; questions both as to the legitimacy of the licensees' intention to construct the systems for which they secured authorizations and, in some instances, the validity of their construction certifications. EWA has noted that a number of such licenses have appeared on the FCC's Termination Pending Public Notices, indicating that no construction certification was received. Given the very lightly populated areas in which these parties elected to apply for SMR licenses, based on their statements to EWA with the expectation that the spectrum would be purchased promptly by a large commercial carrier, it is fortunate, at least, that these licenses were surrendered. The worse situation is that exemplified by the FCC's recent Order involving SMR Station WQUX291.¹⁹ In that case, the licensee certified construction at two locations in Wisconsin but, when its construction status was challenged, chose not to respond to the FCC's inquiries and the license was canceled. EWA recognizes that requiring third-party certification of construction under penalty of perjury will not prevent every abuse of the FCC rules. However, it should act as a deterrent to those parties who seemingly proceed on the assumption that the Commission's construction requirements can be ignored without any serious possibility of being exposed or penalized for their violations. Providing this additional information should not be difficult for legitimate licensees or impose any meaningful administrative burden on the FCC. If the Commission does not want to assume responsibility for reviewing these construction verifications, it could delegate the task to any FAC that agrees to perform that function.

¹⁹ See Janus Spectrum Group, LLC, Order, DA 16-1261 (MD/WTB rel. Nov. 8, 2016). This licensee holds five other 800 MHz authorizations and has certified construction of all five. EWA assumes the Commission is taking action to verify that the construction status of the facilities represented in those licenses was accurately reported.

B. Section 90.35 – Industrial/Business Pool

1. 90.35(b)(3)

EWA is a member of the LMCC and fully endorses its Comments with regard to the unassigned UHF land mobile spectrum under consideration in this proceeding. As explained in those Comments, the PLMR industry is eager to enjoy the functionality of digital trunked technology. Such systems require at least one and preferably all channels that are not subject to the Rule Section 90.187(b) monitoring requirement to achieve maximum efficiency. However, it is extremely difficult to secure exclusive FB8 UHF channels in many parts of the country, including those where population density makes digital trunked systems most critical in meeting user demand.

The Alliance appreciates the FCC's obligation to ensure that it not authorize the use of channels that are likely to cause interference to other users. The FACs who serve the PLMR community have that same objective and are confident that the tools used to coordinate existing Part 90 channels can be applied to ensure adequate interference protection to all licensees, including those in other than Part 90 services.

2. 90.35(c)(63)

The FCC, on its own motion, has requested comment on the possibility of expanding eligibility for UHF channels that currently are reserved for licensees providing central station commercial protection services. EWA, along with the rest of the LMCC membership, intends to work with the Central Station Alarm Association ("CSAA"), an LMCC member, to develop an approach that addresses the communications needs of that industry and of other LMCC member constituencies.

C. Section 90.159 – Temporary and Conditional Permits

Conditional licensing authority has proven over decades to be a safe and effective means for PLMR applicants that satisfy the conditions in Section 90.159 to begin operating prior to FCC processing of their applications. The LMCC filed a Petition requesting the FCC to extend that option to T-Band and 800/900 MHz applicants, a simple, commonsense measure that will promote the prompt availability of PLMR spectrum.²⁰

Like the LMCC, the Alliance disagrees that the directives of the Spectrum Act will in any way be compromised by including T-Band in this expanded flexibility. EWA, which represents many 800/900 MHz SMR licensees, also strongly endorses the LMCC objection to excluding applicants for SMR systems from availing themselves of conditional licensing authority. The NPRM offers no explanation for that proposed limitation, and the Alliance is unable to think of any application processing complication or public interest justification for their proposed exclusion.

D. Section 90.219 – Use of Signal Boosters/Section 90.261 – UHF Fixed Operations

EWA also supports the LMCC position on this issue

III CONCLUSION

The Alliance appreciates the FCC’s effort to promote access to PLMR spectrum, both by acting on the identified LMCC Petitions and by identifying other proposed actions on its own motion. It urges the Commission to proceed promptly in adopting the positions recommended by the LMCC and the additional proposals recommended herein.
