Dear Land Mobile Licensee:

All two-way radio licensees are required by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to operate their radios within the rules and regulations governing Land Mobile operations - Title 47 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) United States Code Part 90. Licensees who fail to comply with the terms and conditions of this FCC issued license can be assessed a financial forfeiture penalty (fine) by the Federal Communication Commission (47 CFR Section 1.80 of the Communications Act - effective September, 13, 2013) as well suffer the possible suspension and loss of operational privileges.

Additionally, the FCC implemented major changes to the rules, having a direct impact on the operation of your system. Specifically, FCC Policy Statement 91-217 which established a set of fines for unlicensed and improperly licensed use of a radio system. Refer to reverse for partial list of violations / fines.

As a leader in licensing preparation, Federal Licensing, Inc., has compiled a complete version of Part 90 of the FCC Rules. This publication endorsed by the FCC's Field Operations Bureau, satisfies the FCC's requirement that all radio users have in their possession a current copy of those rules governing the radio service in which they are licensed. This publication, updated annually, will now assist you the licensee in the proper operations of your radios according to the FCC rules for a full five years of your ten-year license term. As part of this program, EACH LICENSEE WILL RECEIVE A NEW UPDATED RULEBOOK EACH YEAR FOR THE NEXT FIVE YEARS, to assure compliance.
